

FREE LEGAL ADVICE

In addition to free legal advice to children and young people about their rights and family matters, NYAS currently offers free, independent legal advice to vulnerable people and their carers on all aspects of Education Law and Community Care Law.

Education Law

Does your child ...

- ... have Special Educational Needs that are not being addressed?
- ... have a physical disability or mental health problem that is not being taken into account at school?
- ... have difficulties that lead to exclusion from School?

Has your child ...

- ... been refused Admission to the School of Your Choice?
- ... been refused admission to a special school that can meet his needs?

Is your child ...

- ... experiencing bullying at school?
- ... out of school and not receiving suitable alternative education?

Community Care Law

We may be able to help if ...

- ... you are under 18 and have nowhere to live
- ... you are over 18, were previously in care, and now have nowhere to live or need some other type of support to help you manage
- ... you are over 18 and vulnerable in some other way
- ... you are a carer and need support to help you cope
- ... you or your child are disabled and you need additional services to manage
- ... you or your child have been refused a service from a health authority or social services department
