PORKERRY PARK VOLUNTEERING

Porthkerry Country Park in Barry, Vale of Glamorgan, is 220 acres of woods and meadowland. Bouygues UK's Pencoedtre High School Team, and subcontractors F P Hurley and Richard Kemble Contracts, spent an afternoon volunteering at the park. The park had been felling diseased ash trees over the winter so the team helped clear footpaths, and remove branches from the stream.

Woodpiles were created to provide valuable habitats for wildlife including mosses, lichens, fungi and many insects.

It was an enjoyable afternoon and a great opportunity for the site team and subcontractors to work together in a different environment.

“

Thank you to Bouygues UK and their subcontractors for their hard work at Porthkerry Country Park. It was a great afternoon.
